OPEN ACCESS

Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to have published the first issue of The New Journal of Urology for 2026 (Volume 21, Issue 1). This issue includes five (5) original articles and one (1) case report. We believe that these contributions, ranging from functional urology to uro-oncology and reconstructive surgery, will be read with great interest and serve as a reference for future clinical and academic studies.

In this issue, original research papers evaluate the impact of Valsalva leak point pressure on TOT surgery success, provide real-world insights into the stepwise treatment of Interstitial Cystitis/Bladder Pain Syndrome, and identify predictors of success in buccal mucosal graft urethroplasty. Additionally, we feature studies investigating testosterone levels in Peyronie's disease and the effects of neoadjuvant chemotherapy on perioperative outcomes following radical cystectomy. The issue is completed by an intriguing case report on late bladder necrosis presenting as intestinal obstruction.

The New Journal of Urology has been indexed in the TÜBİTAK ULAKBİM TR Index since the first issue of 2011. Our journal is also indexed in DOAJ, Google Scholar, Turkish Medline, Turkish Citation Index, SOBIAD, Scilit, Ideal Online Database, J-GATE, and EBSCO. Furthermore, we continue our collaboration with the ORCID and CrossRef DOI systems.

The editorial team is deeply grateful to all the authors for choosing our platform and to the reviewers who have dedicated their time to maintaining the high scientific standards of this issue.

We invite you to submit your valuable research to The New Journal of Urology, participate in the peer-review process, and cite the articles published in our journal to support the dissemination of urological knowledge.

Respectfully yours
